That's what we do.

We prevent bad things from happening, for example, substance abuse and violence among teens or falls and broken bones for seniors. We promote physical, mental and emotional health across all generations. We provide a place to celebrate successes, mourn losses and reduce social isolation. And we'll be here in the the event of cold weather emergencies.

But these things don't happen for free. The Greater Maple Valley Community Center is a 501(c)(3) nonprofit agency. About 70% of our revenue comes from private donors, corporation & foundation grants, program income and funders other than the City of Maple Valley.

Funding from GiveBig helps us to provide much needed meeting space for foster families, developmentally disabled adults, families with autistic children, home schoolers, alcoholics anonymous and other grass roots community groups at no cost.

Please consider supporting the Community Center through a GiveBig gift on Tuesday, May 5th. Your donation will receive a partial match through the Seattle Foundation so your impact will be even greater.

Thank you for helping us to help our community.
